

Tieman invests in the west

Tieman has appointed Calvin Ridley as Western Australia Bulk Tanker Sales Manager. Calvin will officially join the Tieman team in April and will be based in Perth, selling the full range of Tieman bulk tankers to the WA market. The full range now includes stainless steel chemical, milk, food grade and bitumen tankers, aluminium fuel and emulsion tankers and the full range of aluminium dry bulk bottom discharge and tipping tankers. Having started his career as an apprentice boilermaker and welder with Brambles Tank Degassing in 1990, Calvin brings with him 20 years of experience in the tanker industry. During his time at Brambles, Calvin was involved in hydrostatic testing; and aluminium, steel and stainless steel tanker repairs and modifications to petroleum fuel tankers, petroleum rail tank cars, pneumatic vessels and milk tankers. In 1993, Calvin began working for Road Tank Repairs & Services, where he carried out similar duties and completed his apprenticeship. He was promoted to Operations Manager in 1996, working closely with the Managing Director in further developing the business. Calvin was offered the position of Workshop Manager for Link Energy, a Caltex Distributor in 2006 before the Link Energy workshop was taken over by Integrated Fuel Services. Calvin became the Business Development Manager and was involved in marketing, compliance, human resources and training, sales and technical support. He moved to Port Hedland in 2008 and continued work as Equipment and Compliance Manager for fuel transport company, Fuel Trans Australia. As Calvin joins Tieman, he will work closely with customers throughout Western Australia to provide more productive, innovative solutions for transporting bulk products in tankers. He brings his extensive industry knowledge to Tieman and looks forward to promoting
